TO THE COLLECTORS:

A WORD ABOUT

The A. C. Gies Collection of HALF DOLLARS

It will interest you to know that Mr. Gies is the oldest living collector, and one of the most ardent students of Numismatics since 1864.

He had collected many interesting series, but the foremost of all his collections have been the half dollars, which are being offered to you in this Sale.

The collectors will have an opportunity to obtain rare die varieties that are seldom offered, many of which are being described for the first time.

We might add that this is possibly the largest collection of half dollars ever sold at public sale at one time in the history of Numismatics.

When Mr. Gies became interested in half dollars, he naturally referred to the Hazeltine Type Table, but he discovered so many new varieties that he assigned these to his own numbers.

We are very proud to conduct this Sale, and feel reasonably sure the collectors will use this catalog as a reference guide.

398 1795 H. 18. Very similar to H. 9, but in this the point of star points directly to the point of the bust and barely escapes touching it; the second curl from the bottom on the left is in the same position as H. 9, but is slightly farther from it; the word "Liberty" in this is a trifle closer to the head and the lower star on the left touches the curl more to the left; a slight break in the die extends from the second curl from the bottom to a point nearly between the 2 lower stars; rev., same as H. 11; very fine; excessively rare.

406 1795 H. 25. Obv., same as H. 1; rev., 19 berries, 9 on left and 10 on right; 2 berries between eagle's wing and ribbon bow on the left, both on inside of wreath, and 4 on the right, 2 of them being on outside part of wreath, 1 of the latter being nearly merged into the stem; first S is too far from T in "States"; excessively rare variety; have only seen 2 of them; this is the only variety having 19 berries; fine; extremely rare variety.

407 1795 H. 26. Obv., similar to H. 8, with 2 points of the star touching the curl, but the next curl does not touch the side of the point of star as in H. 8; the point of the bust is nearer (in this) to the point of the star; under this star there is a minute fracture of the die at 1 of the points; rev., same as H. 8 and 20; very fine rare variety.

410 1795 H. 29. Obv., almost like H. 18, but the point of the star pierces farther through the curl and the point of lowest star on the right touches the point of the bust, while in No. 18 it does not quite touch; rev., 16 berries, 7 on left and 9 on right; differs very much from H. 6, 7 or 14; there are 2 berries on the left between eagle's wing and ribbon bow, both on inside part of wreath; there are 4 berries on the right between the same points, 1 being on the outside part of wreath opposite the space between R and I in "America"; a leaf runs down almost midway between I and C in "America"; a leaf touches the last A in "America" between the 2 stands; die cracked from last S in "States" through "of" to the milling; about very fine; excessively rare variety.

411 1795 H. 32. 1806

438 1806 H. 1. 1824

716 1824 H. 1. (This is the variety termed by a New York dealer as over 1822, over 1821, over 1820, over 1819, although I do not think that either he, or anyone else, can determine, with any certainty, what it is over; it certainly is very curious, and among all the overstrikes I certainly think the 1823 should have a showing); the upper left star points to junction of the upper curl with the Liberty band; lower right star is very close to and almost touching the under part of the protruding curl; the ends of the ribbon and a portion of the hair have a double line; rev., letters in "E Pluribus Unum" are under the letters above them as follows; E directly under the centre of D, I slightly to the right of centre of T, S slightly to the right of centre of S, and U in "Unum" directly under the space between O and F in "of"; the scroll commences under D in "United" and extends to under the first stand of M in "America"; last A in "America" near the arrow head and first A too high; E and D in "United" nearly touch at lower part; uncirculated; choice; rare variety.
